ADVERTIRING RATES.

BATURDAY...... APRIL 23, 1892.

Another Word as to Indianastated yesterday that the silver or ilver resolution of the Indiana Demoatio State Convention of Thursday was any interpretation you choose to put ou it. But not so with the platform a upon it. But not so with the platform as a whole. It is most forcibly worded and most elegantly dovetailed together. Especially strong and comprehensive is its statement of the principles of the Democratic party, as is also its arraignment of the Republican party.

The declaration that Mr. CLEVELAND is the "logical candidate" of the Democratic party for President is qualified by the declaration that the presidential campaign of 1892 should be conducted on the issue of tariff reform, as defined in the President's message of 1887. The deafening ap-of tariff reform, as defined in the Presi-dent's message of 1887. The deafening ap-plause that followed the mention of Mr. CLEVALAND's name was possibly not origi-nated by the delegates to the State con-vention, but by the Indianapolis people by shom the hall was packed. However, if Mr. Wattenson may be beheved, Mr. CLEVELAND was in 1883 "skeptical of the issue he had himself precipitated." But that is not material. We will add that we have seen no contradiction of Mr. War-We call attention again to the peculiar

ng of the CLEVELAND resolution, which

"Resolved, That this convention endorses the wise and patriotic administration of Grover Cleveland; that the presidential campaign of 1892 should be conducted on the issue of tariff reform as defined by the President's message of 1887, and that upon this usue Cleveland is the Logical candidate of the Democratic party." The words in italics mean, or seem to imply, that on any other issue than tariff reform Mr. CLEVELAND would not be the logical candidate"—upon the issue of the silver question for example.

The resolution endorsing Mr. Gray reads

Resolved. That the Democratic party of It may; that it holds him to be worthy of any moor in the gift of the people, and that his ame be presented to the convention by the ame be presented to the convention by the elegation this day appointed, and in the event ist the national convention deems the nomina-on of Mr. Cleveland inexpedient the delegaon is instructed to use every honorable is resolution requires the Indiana

Aelegation to the national convention to present Mr Gnar's name to that to present Mr GRAY's name to that body, but is weakened by the qualifying words that if the national convention deems the nomination of Mr. CLEVELAND "inexpedient" the Indiana delegation is "instructed" to use every honorable effort to secure the nomination of Mr. GRAY. The word "instructed" as used in this connection is what was referred to in our Washington telegram of yesterday in the statement that the Indiana convention had not instructed for CLEVELAND but had clared for GRAY as their choice for Presi Rent. The word "inexpedient" is the right word to apply to the nomination of Mr. CLEVELAND. It is a question of expediency. Can he be elected? Is he available? There are numerous able, faithful, and true Democratic statesmen who have as many good qualities and as many goo qualifications as he possesses, whom, pevertheless, nobody would be unwise enough to nominate for President.

that Mr. CLEVELAND is immensely strong in Indiana; that the Indiana delegation to the Chicago convention will vote for him on the first ballot—perhaps more than ce; but that the wise men of the Democratic party of Indiana succeeded in having the delegation left without instructions On the whole, what Mr. CLEVELAND SUS tained in Indiana was not exactly a defeat, but was a reminder that the Democratic party is bigger than any one man in it.

Watterson's View. HENRY WATTERSON told a reporter of the Washington Post night before last that CLEVELAND and HILL " are both out of the race if the Chicago convention is to be a deliberative body and not a mere howling machine."
His personal preference is for Carlisla

"We have three good Democratic Govgrners," said he. "Frowen in New York.

He spoke eulogistically, also, of Russell and Palmer, and added:
Any one of these, or any two of them united, would make a ticket on which the Democratic masses could unite. But, besides these, there are two Democrats hid in the bushes, whom the foliage does not entirely conceal, in whom, it seems to me, there are splendid possibilities. They are William R. Morrison, of Illibois, and Henry W. Slocum, of New York. We pould elect Morrison and Slocum or Slocum and Morrison as easy as falling off a log."

whelming majority.
Only thirty-nine Democrats voted with bir. O'Franall to sustain the report of the Committee on Elections, which was in favor of the contestant, Noves. The Republicans to a man voted to unseat Rock-

The general opinion of the souther editors was that "the South never was more prosperous than it is to-day, and hat there were still wonderful resources to be developed by the expenditure of imparatively little capital."

It will do the Demogratic party no good to secure the nomination for President of the United States of a man who cannot be elected. And yet there seems to be quite a large number of men professing to be Demograts who have no higher object in view, so far as this matter is concerned, than the mere nomination of their favorite. They have become so deeply interested in the question of nomination that they have left out of view altogether the question of election. o-day about noon. But will the people allow themselves to be led into the bogs of defeat by men who prefer defeat with the man of their choice to success with the man of somebody else's choice? little patriotism left in the breasts of our masses as the wire-workers suppose there is? Is there no way of reaching the men thus travelling in the wrong direction? Is there nothing in the force bill to awaken the people to a sense of the danger of allowing the presidency to be thrown away? In 1888 the Democrate throw that high office away. LOVINGSTON, Va., April 22.—Intelligence has reached Lovingston of an affray between Mr. J. B. Andrews, a prominent citizen of this county, and a negro named William Vaughan. The diliculty occurred at Massie's Mills, and Mr. Andrews received a blow on the head from a rock thrown by Vaughan, which knocked him sense.ess and seriously endangered his life. Vaughan escaped and up to file time has not been apprehended. Mr. Andrews is lying at Massie's Mills, his condition being too critical to allow of his being moved. Our girl was a beautiful baby, fair and plump and healthy. But when she was two years old, sores broke out behind her ears and spread rapidly over her head and forehead down to her eyes, and into her neck. We consulted one of the best physicians in Brooklyn, but nothing did her any good. The doctors said it was caused by a scrofula humor in the blood. Her head became
